

Word of the Lord coming to Karin Houwers, Lindos (Rhodes, Greece), Monday the 13th of March 2006.

“Hide thyself a little while until the indignation be overpast. When My storm clouds burst forth over the inhabitants of this world, no one shall be able to work. The earth shall enter into a Sabbath rest, seeing that they have not kept My Sabbaths. I shall cause her to rest of all her toil all these years, and she shall not bring forth her fruit, her harvests, and her seasons as she used to do all these years. I cause her to rest from her wearisome toil for the sons of men. She shall rest, and recover, and regain her strength. In these years My People shall rejoice for they have laid up good things in the years of preparation. They shall not suffer hunger nor starvation, physical nor spiritually, for thy have well prepared with Me in the heavens. I know those who have put their trust in Me. They shall want nothing in the years of calamity.

Men would seek labour, and would want to force her to produce, but I tell you the truth, she shall not be willing, nor able, for I have commanded her: rest now from all your labours. Prepare yourself for your Redeemer, prepare yourself for the King. Prepare yourself for thy God, for I shall bountifully bless you, abundantly reward you for all the labours you had to bear. Rest now, I shall say, and the sons of men shall be shamefaced, fretting, in agony, and confusion when the earth shall refrain from bringing forth fruit as she used to do.

How ungrateful man has been to her! How she has been abused and used for the profit of man! How men have taken advantage of her for their own pleasures and gain. They had no regard for their house I have given them; they have had no respect unto her who has nourished them, and sheltered them, and protected them. How ungrateful man has been in his house!

Now the earth shall take vengeance. I have given her this command; take vengeance on thy inhabitants, and do unto them as they have done unto you! Cause them to have sorrow, and leanness of flesh. Let their eyes pine away of want, just as men have caused you to pine away by reason of rape and abuse! Cause them to drink bitter waters, and cause them to eat bread with scarcity. Take away all thy dainties, and comforts and pleasures which thou hast granted them so long, without murmuring or complaint. Give unto them as they have given unto thee. Dry up thy wells of wealth and treasures out of the deep. Cause thy fish to stink on their tables. Let birds fall from heaven to their confusion. Dry up your rivers, shrink thy lakes, cast forth the waves of the sea. Be wroth with thy inhabitants, let freely go of thy anger; take vengeance on thy enemies, for you have suffered long, you have forborne long. It is enough now, I say unto the earth; take thy pleasure and fulfil thy vengeance as thou wish. Let thy desires be fulfilled on thy enemies, and so shall thy anger be appeased before I come. I shall cause you to rest before I return, My home, My dwelling. Take thy rest. Enter into thy Sabbaths. Cease from labouring. Lay down on thy couch and rest. Behold, I have granted thee this, I have given the command; rest, O earth and take vengeance on thy enemies. I shall behold the judgments of the wicked, which have abused thee for so long.

Then O My Home, rejoice, for thy Redeemer is coming; I shall clothe thee with a new garment. I shall wash thy wounds. I shall bind thy sores, and I, even I, the God of all the universe, shall love thee forever. How privileged thou art, O earth; break forth in singing! Thy warfare has been accomplished. No fool, no wicked, no unclean person shall pass through thee anymore forever. Thou shalt be the home of the privileged ones, the redeemed, the honourable princes and princesses of the Divine Household of Israel. Dainty feet shall walk on thee; beautiful creatures shall admire thee. Thou shalt be honoured above all the planets in the Universe. Rejoice, O earth, rejoice; thy salvation is coming. The curse shall be taken away from thee. Rebellion shall be taken away from thee. The wicked feet and hands shall be removed from thee, for ever. Behold, Who is coming, arriving with the clouds of Heaven? Thy King is coming! Thou shalt bear the throne room of the Universe! How privileged thou art, O earth, amongst the planets of the Universe. Many would have desired to have what thou shalt have, but there can only be one. I have chosen thee, I have prepared thee. I have loved thee. I shall love thee and honour thee forever and ever.

[silence]

Yes My beloved, I have given the command to the earth, that at the appointed time she is permitted to take vengeance on her abusers, for I am a God of judgment. She shall take her fill of wrath before she enters into the fullness of her joy. I have appointed it. I have granted it. This is how it shall be. And the men of this world shall be angry with her, and beat her vehemently, and smite the stick as on a stubborn ass. Give forth, they shall cry, obey, they shall command. But she shall not yield but increase her anger on them as they have never experienced before. Be quiet, they shall shout. Be still, but she shall move herself as she never moved herself before. Men shall have no answer, and shall lift up their fists unto the heaven, and unto the earth. They shall point the fingers at their neighbours, and shall enflame themselves in great hatred.

In that time, My Beloved ones, you shall be save in Me, for I dwell in heaven, and not in the earth, and when the earth takes vengeance, she shall take vengeance on the dwellers of the earth. This is her privilege, this she can do, for I have granted her vengeance on her enemies.

Warn My people, that the thief is coming, he is about to enter into the dwellers of the earth, and shall steal away which they have laid up for themselves. The earth and the thieves shall work together to empty the inhabitants of the earth of the treasures they have stolen from her, without thanksgiving, without repay, without reward. The earth and the thieves shall rob their robbers and strip them naked, that they may laugh at their abusers who have stripped her naked. So they [she?] shall cease from their anger and be ready to receive me.

The thieves are the poor of the land, who have been abused and extracted by their masters. They shall let go of all their restraints and plunder the rich as a swarm of locusts. This they shall have for their pride and arrogance, and the high and mighty shall be laid low.

My Beloved ones, it shall be an unprecedented time of great upheaval such as the world has never seen. Therefore be grateful and rejoice in Me for the things that you have and for the position you are in. Many, I tell you, would wish to be thee in that day when vengeance is taken on the inhabitants of the earth! Therefore, rejoice and be thankful, yet a little while, and I shall come and take both the earth and you to Myself, that she and you may be where I am forever and ever. Amen. [Note; This time of upheaval will probably begin round the year 2010, or at least the beginning of it]

End.